

designed for scientists

LT 5.28

/// Data Sheet

The pressure control valve LT 5.28 is used to regulate the pressure in the temperature control jacket of the laboratory reactor vessel after the temperature control hoses have been disconnected. The valve prevents the formation of an overpressure, which could result from a temperature change of the medium in the temperature control jacket.

IKA

designed for scientists